Gentlemen:

Will you kindly look over the enclosed list, and if it is not too much trouble, advise me, as a member of your society, what, if any value the coins indicated on the attached list have over face value.

With thanks for your early
attention,

Very truly yours,

Dear Mr. Kaufman:

I have looked through your list of gold coins and judge that none of them would command much of any premium. We do not pretend to keep in close touch with the market, but I would like to say that if you offered these coins to a dealer he would give you either face or five or ten percent over face for them. If you wished to buy them from a dealer, you would probably have to pay from about twenty to fifty percent over face. The 1852 $5.00 gold piece is the only one that a dealer would be likely to sell for more, or to offer a little more than for the others, but even so, I doubt if he would ask more than $7.50 for it.

Very truly yours,

Curator.
